Process for patient testing confirmed by Dr Li

Testing for COVID-19

Both Pen Bay and Miles hospitals have set up testing clinics that are open daily. Both are located outside the main hospital areas to lower the risk of cross contamination.

Given that the number of testing kits in Maine is very limited, both hospitals require patients with primary physicians to call their primary physicians first. If the primary physician deems a test is needed, the physician then should call one of these clinics directly to secure a testing slot for the patient.

Patients without a primary physician can call directly to be screened by a nurse.

Pen Bay's clinic includes a drive-through service and is located at 8 Wellness Avenue, Rockland (open 9a-6p, phone 301-3040).

Miles' clinic is located in the Dorothy White building in the ER parking lot at 35 Miles Avenue, Damariscotta (open 8a-8p, phone 563-4353."
